I understand that you want your contractor to evaluate allegations first without seeing recommendations for next steps. For your convenience attached is a version of my previous comments that removes the recommendations. I have also added the new allegation that I discovered and emailed you about on 10/31 after sending the 10/28 original version of my comments. Please give this to the contractor.

Our technical team discussed the new allegation regarding the RSY pads, and, for now, we believe the approach we recommended already for the allegation related to tampering with spreadsheet data would also apply for the potential for backfill to contain contamination above release criteria.

And after the independent review, please also give the contractor the previous version with full EPA recommendations.

We look forward to reviewing the proposed workplan.

Thanks!

- Lily
